

Opioid Overdose Prevention Program Inventory

Component:	Yes	Partial	No
Staff training
All staff are trained on overdose sign and symptoms, risk factors and responses
Offer training in becoming a Narcan responder to all staff
Train staff in how to have conversations about opioid overdose with program participants
Program activities
Ask about overdose history on intake forms
Screen every program participant for overdose risk <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Include questions about personal experiences • Include questions about witnessing an overdose
Educate program participants about the risks for overdose
Integrate opioid overdose prevention and reversal in discharge planning and relapse prevention programming
Program resources
Provide educational materials to program participants about risks for opioid overdose and opioid overdose reversal and Narcan
Has posters or other materials in the program environment that teach about Narcan and rescue breathing
Has Narcan onsite and easily accessible
Program policies
Policies that allow program participants to retain possession of their own Narcan
Policies requiring that upon discharge all program participants will be reminded about Narcan and provided a Narcan referral

Opioid Overdose Prevention Program Inventory

Component:	Yes	Partial	No
Create policies that include frequent safety checks of clients or residents
Program environment
Check physical environment to ensure that there are no hiding places where people can go to use
Make sure that locks on bathroom and bedroom doors are accessible from the outside-no bolt locks
Program networks
Program has made connections to local police about the Good Samaritan Law and other issues related to overdose
Program has made connections to local community Narcan pilot sites			